

Photography Policy

A note from Agni -

I do not take many student photographs for use in email, social media, marketing, or the website.

However, it is always helpful to have photos of class and students, so people know there is ACTUAL YOGA happening!

In the event I would like to take photographs, I will:

1. always ask for verbal and/or written consent first, and
2. never identify a student by name in publications without prior written permission.

Any photos taken or collected are voluntary on the students' part. Students will not receive financial compensation of any type associated with the taking or publication of these photographs or participation in company in marketing materials or other company publications. No rights, royalties, copyright or ownership can be claimed on photo or video material by the subjects therein.
